

Ongoing professional development and training is one of the key drivers of excellence and high performance in the workplace. It also contributes to staff satisfaction and feeling valued in their role. The challenge with any professional development or training is to transfer the new skills and learning back into the workplace. Research suggests that only 10-13% of learning is transferred back into the workplace.

For the integration process to fully take place a number of factors need to be in place that include:

1. The participant needs to be motivated to learn and have the ability to take on board the new information.
2. The training content and structure of the training needs to be interesting to a range of participants.
3. The trainer needs to understand learning theory.
4. The work environment needs to be conducive and positive in supporting the participant to practice the new skills and integrate these into their role.
5. The participant needs to be in a positive to share their learning with other team members.

Amovita Understands

We understand these needs and develop our presentations to ensure that we assist in this process. Our training is flexible, experiential and positive. We provide a range of professional development and accredited courses across a range of topics. We can also tailor training to suit your business or organisational needs. Amovita delivers training during the week, after hours and on weekends.

Training Courses

Amovita Consulting delivers in-house and public courses in the following topic areas:

- Leadership through emotional intelligence
- Captivating your Audience – Presentations with Impact
- Conflict and Mediation Skills
- Developing and Maintaining Professional Boundaries in the Workplace
- Communication with Influence and Finesse
- High Performance in the Workplace
- Professional Supervision for High Performance
- Exercising Mastery in Assertive Interactions
- Human Resource Management
- Case Management Practice
- Writing reports and workplace documents for best practice
- High Performance Strategic Business Planning
- Strategic Communications 101 with Government and Business Leaders

Accredited Training

- Certificate IV in Community Services
- Diploma in Community Services Coordination
- Certificate IV in Social Housing
- Diploma in Social Housing
- Delivered via RPL or face-to-face delivery

Executive Retreats and Mastermind

Amovita also provides Executive Retreats with a focus on Strategic Business Planning, Developing and Building a High Performance Workplace, Working with a Life Balance and Cognitive Emotional Intelligence in the Workplace.

We also facilitate MasterMind Groups where we bring together professionals and business leaders in a group setting to take time out of their hectic schedule and speak with other positive like-minded people.

Benefits of Engaging Amovita for Your Training

- Our presenters are highly qualified professionals
- We are high performance thinkers so you and your staff have trainers that are highly positive and proactive in their training approach
- We use best practice principles in delivering our training with the latest research and information on the training topics
- We have a range of professional development and accredited courses
- We can develop and tailor training to suit your needs

Our Team

All of our counselors are highly qualified and positive professionals who are accredited members of their professional association. We also engage in research and continuous professional development to ensure best practice and leadership in all our services and programs.

AMOVITA CONSULTING
PO Box 5677
Manly Qld 4179

P 0420 234 638
F (07) 3901 1906
E info@amovita.com.au
W www.amovita.com.au

The Facts