

Being an avid policy player in today's policy environment is a must for all leaders in the community/human services sector. Being able to communicate strategically with government means understanding what is currently on the policy agenda, following the political environment and participating proactively.

Knowing how to get your message across, write for policy success and promote your organisation in the policy environment is vital to organisational and sector success. Having the necessary skills to participate in the policy arena is part of participating in operational and strategic discussions about social issues.

The aim of the course is to equip you with the necessary information, skills and tools to be a key proactive policy player in today's policy environment. We show you the necessary tools of engagement with key policy players, understand how you can compliment the work of your Peak organisation, who to talk to when, how to prepare for that all important meeting, engaging in Community Cabinet forums and understand the roles of key players. You will develop a common language framework for getting your message across.

You will be able to successfully build a framework for engagement and build a strategic canvass for policy making. We show you how to get your organisations policy area on the political and policy agenda and communicate strategically for success. The presentation is designed to be interactive exploring real life policy issues and how they were responded to.

This program is suitable for those professionals who are leaders in their field. You may be involved in developing policy, be a Manager, Coordinator
